People learn, and are impacted by, different learning styles. Some learn through listening (although this particular discipline is waning in our culture), some learn through visuals (a discipline that is rapidly growing in our culture), some through logic (how the pieces all fit together), and still others through active learning (movement, actions, kinesthetics). A particular person may prefer a particular learning style, or some dual form of learning styles, but all of us can be impacted to varying degrees by all forms of learning styles.

It is in this spirit of learning styles, and especially the ACTIVE learning style, that we embark on our PASSION PLACES field trips after worship and lunch on Palm Sunday, April 14. I encourage you to set aside any skepticism or perceived reasons why you could not participate and make plans to be a part of actively experiencing modern aspects of the Passion of Christ. We will make three stops of approximately 15-20 minutes each and carpooling will be available. Members and friends of Broadway Church, all ages and abilities, are invited to this special event. It just won't be the same without you!

Have a blessed rest of Lent,

Pastor Rob
